

COVID-19 stress is still doing a number on students and teachers. Today's classroom challenges both a teacher's resources and mental health, but the Ohio State Bar Foundation would like to help you meet those challenges. OSBF lawyers, along with a staff member, have many updated interactive presentations that are free and can be tailored to small or large groups. For example:

- Legal ramifications of sexting/cyberbullying/ and living in a digital world
- Constitutional issues of free speech and due process with real life application to students
- Black Lives Matter Protest and Art
- Legal steppingstones when one turns 18
- Human trafficking and how not to get caught up in its web
- Civil liberties versus civil rights
- Courtroom experiences
- LGBTQ concerns plus the rest of us

Of course, any topics where OSBF incorporates legal knowledge can be created by its staff for classroom use. OSBF is here to serve so just check out some of the materials at www.osbf.org/what-we-do/programs. Also, contact Bev Graves at bgraves@osbf.net for a list of all programs and to discover what OSBF can do specifically for you.
